The Power of ignorance and Man-Made Concepts in a Modern Society

Man-Made Concepts have created a cultivated ignorance upon our world. It started long ago, when everyone in Israel was making gods to protect them in wars, key word: Wars, which the Gods being made created ignorance and the wars created violence. This can be applied to every age in history, especially our future. Our future is going to be one of the most divided up by the ignorant and the open minded due to the lack of oppressive anti-freedom laws, specifically in countries that contain such, but even then there are repercussions for open minded opinions, especially in a cultivated ignorant society and government, where the ignorant have the majority power, media has been a big card player within this, influencing those of the ungrown mind, Gen Z, such as myself have started an ignorant lifestyle that is just going to extend and extend into adulthood eventually, if not educated immediately, people of every man-made concept belief have shown majority ignorance, if it’s not their law then it’s not correct, if their “opposition” did this in the past, everything they say is false, if they aren’t me, they are wrong, weak, and stupid. I must admit, I was once ignorant and closed minded, a Christian Alt Right-Wing imbecile, but that doesn’t mean what I am saying now is “dumb and false” or invalid, I have grown past such, I believe people can change from ignorance, because I have, but we must recognize ignorance first and explain why it is. Media is ignorance, Daily Wire, Infowars, MSNBC, Fox News, etc. all examples of ignorance, and here is why, it influences division of opinions and messes with the brain enough to cause ignorance and biased to the opposition of their agenda, when realistically, they are both wrong, wrong for ignorance, and bringing division. If you get handfed your opinions from media, you need to think, is this a division causing man-made concept? Or is it moral? Don't corrupt moral, we know moral, because it takes true common sense, common sense isn't insult, violence or division, even to those who seemingly deserve it based on the ignorant population, such as racists, tell them verbally why they are wrong, don't commit violence or insult, it just makes them more hateful, and this goes beyond just racists, you can't change someone's lifestyle from violence and insult, only fact, and if they don't take fact as a true thing, then they are too ignorant to live, and should be demonized, not just because they are a part of a division causing man-made concept, but because they are ignorant. The next concept is Modern Social Norms, the making anew of division concepts, or taking outdated concepts and cultivating it into their agenda of ignorance, such as activists and politicians of ignorance and division, appeasing the ignorant instead of the requirements to live, all politicians do this, but a modern and eventually outdated example is the USA being the Worlds Police, our tax dollars should not aid other countries, despite the fact I believe the idea of a "country" is a division causing concept, nobody is going to accept this any time soon, due to ignorance, I don't want one country not existing and then every other country doesn’t follow, it’s like gun control, if we don’t have guns, the criminals will just illegally get them and kill us, like how if the USA for example denied the idea of us being a country and we just identified into Pangea, and expected everyone else to do so, we would get slaughtered, but that’s beside the point, us giving money to countries hasn’t been in small quantity and had no trade, just out of blind pseudo-kindness, we should be focused upon spending money so everyone can live normally, not on man-made division concept, nobody is divided on the opinion that everyone deserves a household, if we didn’t spend billions of dollars for nothing in return, we could have achieved this, we still can if we ask for material that can aid our efforts to free households in return, but ignorance has denied this opportunity. Activism is also in guilt, millions of dollars spent, all for division and ignorance, we should not give a penny to an activist of race, gender, political movements, ideologies, culture, or anything that doesn’t improve everyone’s life, and the oppressors of the activists aren’t free from this law either, both need to accept that this is not needed as of now, but will ignorance stop this? The next concept is Religion, very controversial to bring this, but religion affects people’s lives by division as well, people divided over who is right and who is wrong, just as humans do, but with the extra addition of ignorance because “My God Said So”, this sounds insulting, but it’s not intended, I am saying you shouldn’t be ignorant because of your religion, remain an open minded being at all times, not to manmade division concepts that already have been debunked, but to how we can make the world a better, less ignorant and divided place, even if people have to drop their division causing obsessions, but what will the ignorant think? The next concept is Politics, which is quite obviously division, nobody is better policy if they both only care to appease a divided ignorant agenda. The next Concept is Culture, a “beautiful” thing where people show how race is of value when realistically, race isn’t real at all, we are human, you can’t have culture without division, I mentioned regional and racial culture, but now I will mention all culture, which is division causing and ignorant, think about it, the internet was never a kumbaya place, so its culture is only unintelligent to intake, pop culture is always this who or what is better nonsense, tradition, religious are just as ignorant, holidays can cause division too, “I believe this, so this isn’t valid”, deny both and focus on something like helping people, not in the name of holiday, but in the name of your own self, you shouldn’t rely on any manmade construct for you to be a basic kind human being. The next concept is countries, one country goes to war with another, Yatta Yatta Yatta, its pointless conflict, there is no Germany, Poland, Russia, Great Britian, USA, etc. We are Pangea, Language is the one exception, it would take centuries to rid that concept, if you noticed how I call Constructs concepts and concepts Constructs, it’s because they are both the same thing, man-made and division causing.

How to fix this?

By ridding the ideas off this Earth, Klansmen, BLM, Neo-Nazis, Marxism, Socialism, Proud Boys, Countries, Cultures, Beauty, Religious Ignorance, Antifa, Trump, Biden, Bernie, Putin, Zelensky, Right-wing, Left-Wing, Racism, Race, Progressivism, Social Problems, Inflation, Communism, lgbtq+, etc. all need to be ridded of to make a stable WORLD, sounds like censorship? Right? Well, here is where you are wrong, what is the positive in these things? And do they make the negative disappear? No, it's always the Negative outweighing the positive, and then the drama, death, and ignorance. We build a new, not a new government, that will destroy the world, a new focus towards making it possible to live, not for one community or group, but for all.

This is the only way to keep our world STABLE, I may be a small army, against an entire Planet of Ignorant Man-Made Division-Fetishized Mafia Members, but I believe we can change against these concepts created to end us all.
